St. Cyril of Alexandria, Bishop & Doctor – Confidence in Prayer

John xvi. 23,24. Jesus tells us that His holy Disciples will be more courageous and more understanding when they would be, as the Scripture says, Endowed with power from on high (Lk. Xxiv. 49), and that when their minds would be illumined by the torch of the Spirit they would be able to see into all things, even though no longer able to question Him bodily present among them. The Saviour does not say that they would no longer as before need the light of His guidance, but that when they had received His Spirit, when He was dwelling in their hearts, they would not be wanting in any good thing, and their minds would be filled with most perfecting knowledge.

And by perfect knowledge we mean that knowledge which is true and undistorted, when in the Holy and Consubstantial Trinity. For though we now as it were see through a glass in a dark manner, and know only in part, as Paul tells us (I Cor. Xiii. 12), nevertheless, as long as we adhere carefully to that which has been taught us, and follow close to the mind of the holy and divinely revealed Scriptures, we shall possess a knowledge which is not imperfect, and such as no one may make his own unless first enlightened by the Holy Spirit.

In this way He urges the Disciples to seek for spiritual gifts, and at the same time gives them confidence that, should they ask for them, they will not fail to obtain them; adding the word Amen, that He might confirm their belief that should they ask the Father anything they would receive it from Him; He acting as their Mediator and making known their request, and, One with the Father, granting it. For this is what He means by in My name; for we cannot draw nigh to God the Father otherwise than through the Son. For it is by Him we have access in the one Spirit to the Father; as it is written (Eph. ii. 8). It was because of this He said: I am the door; I am the way. No man cometh to the Father, but by Me (Jn. X. 7; xiv. 6). For as the Son is God He, One with the Father, provides good things for His sanctified, and is found to be generous of His Bounty to us.
